Kathy Eldon has worked as an art teacher, television presenter, magazine editor, journalist, media consultant and a television and film producer in Kenya, England and the United States. She is the CEO and Co-Founder, with her daughter Amy Eldon Turteltaub, of Creative Visions Foundation. The Creative Visions Foundation supports people, especially the young, who use media, technology and the arts to create awareness of social, environmental or humanitarian issues and effect positive change in local and global communities.

This book is an incredible guide to grief. I purchased this book after a death in my boyfriend's family and I've really been relying on it. The introduction explaining the reasoning behind this story, as written by the author. The mother and daughter team have been through this before and they understand a lot of the feelings we're feeling now. I personally really love the illustrations. There is a pocket included to place photos, mementos, and more. I also appreciated the helpful readings list. I recommend this book for anyone going through a loss.

This book is such a lifesaver! I have given it to my family! I have shown it to my counselor who has recommended it to other clients! This book is fantastic! And it is not gender specific which is wonderful! I have given mine away to someone in need and I will be ordering another just for me, unless someone else in need will need it. I am thinking of having at least one on hand, not to sound morbid, but death affects people in different ways and this little book is a lifesaver!!

Ordered this for a loved one. It meant a lot to her and she ended up ordering more for her children. There is also a pocket in the back of the book that I wasn't expecting. I added pictures and a letter to the pocket which I think adds a special and personalized touch.

I was looking for a journal to write about my feelings of the sudden death of my stepfather. I loved all the little things that you can write, last conversation, last photos, how your feeling, memories, and envelope in the back to add keepsake, last card, many others. I was so pleased with it, I decided to buy three more to give to my mom and Stepsisters. I always wrote a journal after my husband passed away, which this was out 11 years ago!! Thank you to Kathy Eldon to come out with this idea!! It deserves more than 5 stars!!

I lost my younger brother on Christmas Day. This journal is helping me deal with my grief. There are places for favorite photos, memories (both good & bad) & venting your anger & hurt. You don't have to go in any particular order. Just go thru the journal & use the page that matches your feelings for that day. I think this is an important tool for recovery & a keepsake to pass along to family members to help keep memories alive. This journal has helped me tremendously.

When my mom died suddenly, I sought a few books to help me through the process of grieving. This is the only one that I actually found helpful. I have turned this into a scrapbook of sorts, with pictures and poems and journaling. Working on it every couple of days or so has been like weeks of therapy. I am now buying it for friends who have lost a loved one. Even if you are not sure this is for you, it's not very expensive and worth looking over.

Helped me very much when my mother died. I wish I could have gotten this when she died not just for me but for all my family members.. It helps you record all the things you are thinking that first year. and some beyond. Room for keepsakes. I wish i could have given it 10 stars.Very good gift for someone who has lost someone they loved.

LOVE, LOVE, LOVE this journal!!! I tried to start a journal when my Son passed a year ago, but it was so hard to keep going!! This amazing book gives you the start of everything you want or need to write, and many you probably would never think of!!! Such a beautiful cover too! Would make a great gift to somebody you love or for yourself! VERY worth it!!! Love this!!!! Download to continue reading... Of course, super fast delivery and well packed!!! Highly recommend!
