Customer Reviews

I am cardiologist and teacher on human auscultation. I bought the CD because I thought I could learn some more on auscultation in general. I was deeply dissappointed and am outright angry because the high price is not justified at all. The content does not supply a minimum level of knowledge for students of clinical examination be it human or veterinary doctors. I would expect also more profound insight for the expert reader. If auscultation in general is just desribed at the beginners level the true value of it may never become clear to the beginner. Apart from auscultation a CD or book on clinical examination of the horse would be more instructive. An expert knows that major clues to the diagnosis of diseases of the cardio-circulatory signs can be derived from peripheral or indirect signs. Focus on auscultation alone is like trying to see three-dimensionally with one eye. There does not apparently exist a didactic concept as presumptions are made which at the low level of readers addressed are not allowed (see grading of mumurs). In the day and age of modern media I would have expected better animations on heart and valvular movements etc. which would make the matter much more descriptive. At least a more detailed bibliography would have been helpful. I would prefer a well written book with good explanations of clinical signs on the basis of current knowledge in physiology and pathophysiology as in J. Constants "Bedide Cardiology". This in depth approach requires time the author obviously did not have. Sometimes new media pretend that they are better than old books. This is not always true, too bad for the money.
