Linda Scott is a successful clothing designer. She has worked with some of the world's leading retailers, including Topshop and Marks & Spencer. Her work has been featured in museum exhibitions and she is a contributing editor to children's magazine Okido.

I'm an art teacher to kindergarten through 8th graders, and this book is enormously popular with my 3rd-8th graders. I used it as a reference book for a lettering project, and the kids were very excited and loved using this book. The great thing about this book is that all of the fonts are creative and thoughtful, but they are not overly technical. They are accessible enough that the kids don't feel intimidated to try them, and are able to build their own font ideas after seeing examples from this book. I've had several students excitedly tell me that they purchased the book for themselves. Very cool! A design flaw is that it doesn't lay flat, so that can be a bit difficult. I'm debating about cutting the binding off and getting it spiral-bound. It really is a great resource. Beside the font examples inside, there are many activities and exercises. It would be a fun book to give to a budding young artist.

This is a book that you wished you had in middle school. All the other kids will be amazed and envious of your cool bubble writing. There are bubble types to fit any project, message or theme. All with large enough illustrations for you to copy with ease. After trying out so many different styles you will gain skill and feel confident to invent your own bubble fonts! Highly recommend as a gift to yourself or for any kid,

I have been doing creative writing for 15-20 years so am always looking for new ideas. The content of the book is fine. What I do not like is the fact that the paper is like tan construction paper. Most every page has room for practice but i fear that a felt tip would bleed all over the place on this paper. Knowing that the paper was construction paper type I would not have made this purchase unless it was half of the price I paid. i have seen better quality in a dime store coloring book than this one.

on time and just as expected. I am very happy with the order and the quality of the product. I would happily order this again my daughter (who is 11) loves this book and has gotten a lot of use out of it.

Really fun book! I bought this for my 14 year old.

I purchased this book for my daughter who loves to bubble write lyrics to her favorite songs. It came in handy during Science Fair, making the heading on the board.

It's OK
