Franklin W. Dixon is a pen name used by a variety of authors writing for the classic series The Hardy Boys. The first and most well-known "Franklin W. Dixon" was Leslie McFarlane, a Canadian author who contributed 19 of the first 25 books in the series. Other writers who have adopted the pseudonym include Christopher Lampton, John Button, Amy McFarlane, and Harriet Stratemeyer Adams.

My son lived it - as a 10 year old - it was a great starter set of chapter type books that is the step beyond the Diary of a Wimpy Kid books

Fantastic box set of books and my 9 year old loves these! This was excellent value for money and I only paid $22 with Prime but there was a $39.99 sticker on the box set so clearly I got a good deal!

This was a great deal! We bought these as a gift for our grandson who loves to read and he is loving these. My husband remembered reading these as a child and when I was reading the names of the books we could purchase for our grandson, he really wanted to give him these. They were a great choice. If you get a chance, purchase them! Great deal, fast shipping, and wonderful read!

This was a gift for my nephew. I was quite pleased to learn that he was reading the older versions by Frank Dixon, so I bought this for him. It arrived in shrink-wrap and pristine condition, as the the content I cannot say what he thought of it.

Our grandson loves police-type stories so this was a perfect way to give him reading materials that keep him engaged. Great starter set for a great price.

In the past, I enjoyed reading the Hardy Boys series. I appreciate the availability of these books and happily added them to my collection.

Classic collection for the young (first through fourth grade) reader.

Great books for young boys, our Grandson is devouring them!
