Governance And Policy In Sport Organizations (Sport Management)

Synopsis

The third edition of Governance and Policy in Sport Organizations introduces readers to the power and politics of sport organizations. It explores the managerial activities essential to governance and policy development, and it looks at the structure and function of organizations like those with which readers will interact in the workplace. It also demonstrates where the power lies in an organization or industry segment and how individual sport organizations fit in to the greater industry. Current policy issues and the ethical questions they raise are also addressed. Real-world case studies demonstrate the types of dilemmas that sport managers face every day. In addition, professional administrators from a wide variety of sport organizations contribute their perspectives, giving readers a glimpse into the real concerns of sport professionals and the impact of governance and policy on their jobs. The book's practical foundations, readability, and logical organization all help readers to understand the big picture of the sport industry and their place in it as future sport managers. New to the third edition is a chapter on individual professional sport, which explores how this industry segment differs from professional sport leagues. In addition, contributions from Thierry Zintz, from the Universite catholique de Louvain, offer insights into European sport organizations.

"I like the exposure to a variety of sport organizations and activities. Most freshmen and sophomores are not aware of career opportunities within the sport industry, mostly because they do not understand how these organizations work, how they are structured, or what the mission/vision is for the different categories." William Kuchler, Methodist University, US

Mary A. Hums is a Professor in the Department of Health and Sport Sciences, University of Louisville, US. In 2009 she was selected as the recipient of NASSM's Earle F. She is the author of two books and numerous academic and professional articles in leading sport management publications. MacLean and her colleagues recently completed a three-year research project entitled "Exploring Interdependence in Canada's Sport System," funded by the prestigious Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada and Sport

Canada for more than $71,000. MacLean was named a Research Fellow of the North American Society for Sport Management in 2009.

Although now outdated, this book helped me to understand how many sports organizations govern themselves. As a book required for a class in 2016, the 2013 information was a bit annoying, but the author and publisher were totally up on the game when this was current.

Excellent Read

Easy read, helps with comprehension

It's good!!
