James Howe is the author of more than ninety books for young readers, including the modern classic Bunnacula and its highly popular sequels. In 2001, Howe published The Misfits, the story of four outcast seventh-graders who try to end name-calling in their school. The Misfits is now widely read and studied in middle schools throughout the country, and was the inspiration for the national movement known as No Name-Calling Week (NoNameCallingWeek.org), an event observed by thousands of middle and elementary schools annually. There are three companion novels to The Misfits: Totally Joe (2005), Addie on the Inside (2011), and Also Known as Elvis (2014).

Howe's many other books for children from preschool through teens frequently deal with the acceptance of difference and being true to oneself. Visit him online at JamesHowe.com. C. F. Payne has illustrated more than a dozen picture books, including the New York Times bestselling Mousetronaut by astronaut Mark Kelly, the Texas Bluebonnet winner Shoeless Joe & Black Betsy, written by Phil Bildner, and the New York Times bestsellers The Remarkable Farkle McBride and Micawber, both by John Lithgow. He teaches at the Columbus College of Design, where he is the chair of the Illustration Department. Payne lives with his wife and children in Cincinnati, Ohio. Visit him online at CFPayne.com.

Love the writing, but the actual books could be better. The paperback bindings are not very nice and the spines crack easily making the books look old quickly. The slipcase is pretty flimsy. My children like to keep books in the slipcases to keep things organized and this is easily the wimpiest book case we own. The book covers are pretty thin and I prefer a more glossy finish to books, rather than the matte finish and very thin paper of the book covers. So if the books feel is very important to you, be warned these are not high-quality. The stories are wonderful and I'm so excited for my children to enjoy the stories, I just don't have any hope of their children holding these same books.

My 7 year old daughters, summer reading back when I was a boy I read as far as the third book. This summer me and my daughter made it through the fifth at bed time. She is loving them just as much as I remember and being able to just pick up the next the night after finishing the last has made for a ongoing experience. Awesome stories, a change to lightheartedly introduce the macabre, but you know not really. . . such fun vampire bunnies werewolf puppies .. and what. Truly engaged her imagination and her stuffed animals as well.

I'll admit I had no idea there were any sequels to Bunnacula, the classic that was read by my 5 bro/sis & I when I was a kid & holds a lot of nostalgia for me. My daughter saw my childhood copy (which has unfortunately succumbed to mildew from being stored in a box in a shed - tragedy!) in a pile of my old books my mom brought over. She was intrigued & wanted to read it but, not wanting to subject her to mildew & wanting a replacement copy anyway, I went onto to order a copy. And I made a wonderful discovery - there were more! I ordered this set and surprised my daughter with it - I think I earned major mommy points. She was ecstatic and proceeded to read the whole set in the course of a week, breaking my heart in the process because we were supposed to read them together after she was tucked in bed (seriously, I think I was as excited as she was to read these). But, after we finished one series, she wanted me to start these even though she'd just read them. And, I must say, these are as fun as I remember Bunnacula being as a kid - probably more so because of the little quips that are throughout the books are probably more understood by someone a bit older. My daughter likes the bit of mystery & hijinks and I like the wit and sharing them with her. I highly recommend this set for anyone from 7 (my daughter) to 37 (me) (or beyond!). These books are awesome.

Lovely. For some reason, and I had been confused by this, I thought it was all the books combined into one. But I am happy to say there is 7 individual books in this. It is a box set. I thought I would mention that since I was confused and someone else might be as well. Anyway, My son loves them, and we are currently on the second one. Love it Bought these for the nostalgia. Also because I have a rabbit and cat, so it seemed fitting. The quality of the covers are fantastic. Came neatly packaged.

arrived just as described. new in box and in perfect shape. my daughter loves these books and was very happy

My 2nd grader is getting into shorter chapter books this year. I loved these stories when I was young so for bedtime story, I've been reading a chapter from Bunnacula and he's been getting a kick out of it. Last night was the scene with Chester the Cat trying to kill the bunny vampire with a steak from the freezer. I was crying I was laughing so hard. I might be enjoying it a bit more than my kid is...

Wonderful little boxed set! I bought these books as a gift to my unborn son. My husband reads a couple chapters to my abdomen every night and it has been a wonderful bonding experience for us. These books are witty enough to be enjoyed by two adults at bedtime. We are often in fits of laughter--what a wonderful way to go to bed.
