This is an excellent book on the intricate processes inherent in making high quality soap. The author describes fatty base mixtures like Shea, as well as, safflower, hazelnut and grapeseed. The process for adding water to lye is set forth. In addition, classic additives are explained like seaweed, tea and even buttermilk. This book would be an excellent value for people interested in naturally-based soap preparations for health reasons. The presentation would be helpful for people who make their own soap to avoid inorganic additives for health reasons. Inorganic additives may introduce harmful substances into the body through rigorous rubbing while bathing. As a result, some health conscious consumers may prefer to make their own soap at home. This book is good for doing this. As such, the book is highly recommended.

Jessica (Jesse) Jacobs offers three books in one with this very satisfying overview (and a lot of details, too) of natural elements that enhance your lifestyle based on natural products around the house. It is all part of her 'green lifestyle' she has adopted. Or as she states it, 'Forget about beauty magazines and popular cosmetic brand commercials. This book will take you through the world of natural skincare and basically - through your own kitchen. It will also show you the way to save money as you won't have to spend money on expensive skincare products and will learn that you already have everything what your skin is longing for. These natural skincare recipes and methods have proven themselves through decades; those who turn to natural skincare don't return back to commercial products.' Jesse includes three of her published books in this trio of health ideas. In her book on the uses of homemade body scrubs and masks she uses her traditionally user-friendly fashion. For the uses of soap making she offers the following segments: Tea Tree Oil Soap, Shea Butter Marvel Soap, Soothing Ginger Soap, Banana Cream Smoothie Soap Deluxe Olive Castile Soap and then offers pointers for making this process both easy and healthful. She then moves on to advice on body butter recipes and ways to use these for healthy skin: What Body Butters Are and Why You Should Make Your Own, Knowing Your Skin and Its Needs, The Home Body Butter Laboratory: The Essentials You'll Need, Base Body Butter Ingredients, Popular Ingredients to Add to Body Butter Bases, and Simple Body Butter Recipes You Can Start Trying Right Away. And in the final portion of this triptych she shares the secrets and health aspects of apple cider vinegar: How Apple Cider Vinegar Can Be of Use to You, Apple Cider Vinegar for Weight Loss and Detoxification, Apple Cider Vinegar for Optimum Health, Beautiful Skin with Apple Cider Vinegar and then offers Key Takeaways from this Book Summed Up Nicely So You Can Take Action. Jesse's style is warm and friendly yet everything she discusses she backs up with fine references. This is another fine collection. Grady Harp, September 14

This is an awesome box set! I love the secret uses of Apple Cider Vinegar, that is my absolute favorite. Learning about any household product that I can put to more use than one is very intriguing to me. It is amazing all the things you can do with Apple Cider Vinegar. I can't wait to try it for my joint pain. The Soap Making for Beginners was very helpful and informative. It explained everything perfectly in my opinion, and with a lot of detail. I felt the same on the Body Butter Recipes. It was filled with great information and fun recipes to try. These books were all very thorough. Worth the money!

I was pretty excited when I saw that Jessica was offering a trilogy of her practical books. I don't really know much about Body Butter or Soap Making, but since I am big into natural things, these books were right up my alley. I really liked the comprehensive way that she told me not only the steps to making soap and all the different additives, but also how to troubleshoot as I am attempting it. Body Butter is another new-to-me idea but I am big into essential oils so I loved the way Jessica incorporated those into the butter recipes. I love caring for my skin and this will definitely help me reach my goals. Finally, the book on apple cider was definitely my favorite - perhaps because I already know the importance of incorporating apple cider into my health regimes. I already use apple cider regularly, but Jessica gave me some more uses for it like helping with digestion and increasing my body's alkaline-acid balance - something that is very important to me. So, if you are big into natural health or really want to be, buy Jessica's trilogy of books right now. They are a great deal.

I'm a big fan of Jessica Jacobs books. Although I already have the Apple Cider Vinegar and Soap Making books, this book is still a great value because of the Body Butter book. For those who haven't downloaded any of these books, it is an even better value. Body butter is the best cream for me to use to keep my skin smooth and supple. I love it but the good brands can get expensive. The commercial ones can also contain chemicals that I wouldn't want to use on a long term basis. That is why I was excited when I found this book. A simple one that I like and used recently is the "Simple Protector Against UV Radiation" formula. There are many recipes to choose from so you are sure to find one to suit your purposes.

3 great books all in 1! My favourite was the Apple Cider Vinegar book. I had no idea just how many good properties apple cider vinegar has. I'll be sure to use it on my sun burns this summer and to get rid of hard callus formations on my hands from the gym. My wife loves the body butter book of course! Great bang for your buck here! Thank you!
